The justifications for doing so are stated below: (i) The University does not have satisfactory middle level academic positions. Number of Associate Professor needs to be increased in order to avoid migration of Assistant Professors to other Universities in the competing world. (ii) Once the Associate Professor is promoted to the position of Professor, the vacancy of Associate Professor is carried away by the promotee. Hence, vacancies do not occur. (iii) With the growth of the University number of research students have increased. For Ph. D. and M.Phil students middle level supervisors are required. (iv) Involvement of Associate Professors in undertaking and promoting research activity of the University is required. If adequate Associate Professors are not available research activity will hamper. Therefore, creation of two posts of Associate Professors of Law is essential.

SUBJECT: Conversion of CGPA to percentage.

Dear Sir,

I, Rhyea Malik, am a fifth year student of this university. My CGPA after 8 semesters is 5.4 / 7 and I am ranked within the top 20 students of my batch.

Sir, according to the university guidelines for cgpa conversion to percentage,

5.4 cgpa = 67%

7.0 cgpa = 75%

Thus the scale for conversion of cgpa to percentage is based on 75% instead of 100%.

This may be converted to 100% scale by,

$67/75 \times 100 = \text{greater than } 80\%$

For admission to the top mba colleges in india, the minimum required percentage in graduation should be 80%. This 80% is based on the scale of 100%.

As our university considers 75% as the highest attainable percentage, law students despite qualifying the written exam, would be unable to avail admission in the good B Schools of India.

Calculating percentage on the basis of individual subjects would also not be prudent as the marks on the basis of bell curve are again distributed with 75% being the grade of excellence.

Looking at even the highest marks for all subjects, rarely do they cross 80%.

I request you to kindly issue me a certificate, on individual basis, that 5.4 CGPA in NUJS, on the scale of 100%, is above 80%.

Sir, it is my humble request to you to please consider my application so that different avenues may open up for law students post law school.

Thank you.

Ms. Sarkar has to complete 3rd semester for completion of dissertation. Recently, there was no rule (approved) the limitation or tenure to complete LL.M course at that point of admission in LL.M. Presently a LL.M student has to complete LL.M within four years from the date of admission which is effective from 2012.

Respected Sir,

Seasons Greetings ! Trust all is fine at your end !

I'm Nandini Sarkar, a postgraduate student of this reputed institution, in the academic year 2004 - 2006. I still consider myself as a student of this premier institute, though I was forced to digress from presenting my final dissertation paper to obtain the prestigious LLM degree in 2006, due to my father's sudden illness.

Background : My father had slipped into coma as an aftermath of depression. Family took the front seat in my priority list and I had to attend to catering to the financial needs of the family, hence was compelled to withdraw from the course and join a job. Situation is somewhat stable now and I want to continue from where I was forced to leave. Currently I'm working and would want to complete the unfinished task.

I humbly request your permission, to allow me to appear for submitting the dissertation paper and thereby obtain the pending LLM degree.

Further to the above request, I would want to plead before your good conscience to also give necessary directions to the Academics & Examination Department to issue marksheets for all the semesters [written examinations] that I had appeared during the aforementioned academic year.
